

F.A.M.M.A.C MEXICO HAS MUCH TO OFFER!

Mexico is America's oldest country. It was made by mixing development and European culture (one of the most developed at the time) with ancient American culture that also had a seat in our territory that had achieved great cultural and scientific development. The result was a new breed with a different human condition, with progress and development trend praiseworthy. The culture of hard work and vocation have been evolutionary and prevailed over their own conquest and all social movements by what happened. We have history, we have culture and tradition. The same evolutionary history has been in education, so that the practice gives Mexicans a vocation very outstanding achievement and service. Experience in coordinating academic efforts and social guidance has made our partnership a leading institution in Latin America.

Mexico holds that leadership with great success locally and projected to the entire American continent. In the area of history Mexico was the first country in the Americas to achieve its independence, first country to consolidate democracy after the revolution. First country to have the fortune of a university and offer postgraduate studies. First country to have a constitution that includes the regulation of the practice of health care, with rules, statutes and regulations that guarantee the sacred right to health and medical care integrating purely academic domes that command and regulate professional practice and responsibilities, the National Academy of Medicine, the National Academy of Surgery and anatomy research colleges rely on state and exercise fitness resource for other organizations, associations or societies of civil order discreetly monitor the process, as in the case of boards, medical societies and associations that regulate and guarantee on the basis of professional competence certification must display professionals in their daily work.

Our federation ensures the efficiency and effectiveness of healthcare processes facing the patient as one of its primary objectives, keeping its members and therefore the institutions in which it operates and to the societies they belong to the forefront and in line with the latest scientific and makes efforts to establish control and dictate policy to permeate this preparation the social environment, developing a culture and a commitment to service with a balance between the imperative to break down barriers and popular paradigms and the need to ensure the care and successful resolution of the health needs of different social strata, making professionals have an image utility, safety and effectiveness in solving health problems of the population. The foregoing has emerged as the tradition of dynamic and intelligent adaptations that give our professionals a relevant role and status in society.

The federation is an organization that brings together civil doctors practicing medicine in Mexico and belonging to a society, association or public school, of which there are 32 in our country, each with a headquarters in the state capital and a society with population density and high economic status and that brings a number of active members. Its philosophy is based on the previously defined mission and a long-range vision underpinned by strong values which derive actions that are strictly defined in the annual and quarterly, duration of the current president.
