Universal Declaration of Human Rights and Women's Health

- Universal Declaration of Human Rights, adopted by the United Nations (UN) in 1948, states that “
- Everyone has the right to a standard of living adequate for the health and well-being of himself and of his family,” and “Motherhood and childhood are entitled to special care and assistance. <sup>1</sup>

Cairo Programme of Action

- Violence against women represents a significant barrier to human development, as stated in the Cairo Programme of Action.
- “In a number of countries, harmful practices meant to control women’s sexuality have led to great suffering. Among them is the practice of female genital mutilation, which is a violation of basic rights and a major lifelong risk to women’s health”<sup>2</sup>

(para. 7.35)

Health and Human Rights

Examples of the links between Health and Human Rights

Women's Health A Missing Link?

- Gender, societal roles and women's rights have drastic impact on women's health, especially reproductive health
- This is a missing link in many societies where there is an unmet need for contraception , lack of access to safe mother hood and lack of gender equity.

A Portrait of Women

- Women in developing countries face a number of challenges to their health and well-being
- Over 300, 000 women die each year from complications during pregnancy and childbirth, the vast majority of them in Africa and Asia. <sup>3</sup>
- This includes nearly 70,000 deaths from unsafe abortion

Staggering Statistics

- According to studies, between 10% and 69% of women report having been assaulted by an intimate male partner at some time in their lives.<sup>4</sup>
- A study conducted by Buvinic, Morrison, and Shifter found that in Latin America the proportion of women who were assaulted by their partners is between 10% and 35%, while in sub-Saharan Africa, it is between 13% and 45 %.<sup>4</sup>

Strategies to address gender based violence

- Male involvement and input when implementing programs to prevent violence against women has shown to be effective.
- Treatment programs for abusers
- Women Police Stations
- Stringent punishment for abusers <sup>5,6</sup>
